

PROJECT PROFILE - ANTHRAX DECONTAMINATION

New York, NY

October 2001 - November 2001

Offices of NBC Broadcasting at Rockefeller Center, NY, NY

Objective:

The decontamination and clearance associated with Anthrax contamination at the NBC offices at Rockefeller Center in New York City.

Results:

SCE was contracted to provide decontamination efforts associated with an Anthrax attack at the NBC offices at Rockefeller Center in New York City. Approximately 18,000 sq. feet of office space was in jeopardy from an infected letter sent to an NBC worker.

SCE decontaminated over 56 individual offices. The cleaning and decontamination of the entire building HVAC system, along with the physical cleaning of every office was part of SCE's scope utilizing Sandia Foam and Chlorine Dioxide as cleaning agents. Crews worked 24 hours per day in order to expedite the cleaning and return workers to their offices.

Upon completion, confirmatory sampling detected no Anthrax. Workers were allowed to enter the building after the CDC confirmed negative split sampling results.
